

DAVIDSONS WINTER SERIES

Once again, the Davidsons Winter Series came down to the wire, with everything resting on the final race for Division 1. Darryl Speakman's Usual Suspects managed to get the race win, but it was not enough to overtake Phil Francis' Spirit of Rani or Ian Hunter on Reverie who finished 2nd and 3rd and ended up on equal points for the series. Spirit of Rani took the top honours on a countback having won 2 races for the series to Reverie's one. Harry Farnell, who took the helm of the last two races with Phil Francis on holidays, was overjoyed. On accepting the award, Harry thanked the fellow competitors, and Race Officer for the series, Ray Goodwin. He also added, "With such a good result in Phil's absence, we might look at him not being on the boat for the Summer Series as well."

In Division 2, what could have been a tight end to the series ended up with Kim Clarke and his team on Flying Circus walking away with a win for the day and the series, finishing 6 points ahead of Jon Apted's Diamond Belle, with Peter Bone's Baltic another 5 points behind in 3rd.

Congratulations to the winners and all competitors for another great Davidsons Winter Series, and thank you to Davidsons for their continued support!
